Water charges change

Rolleston residents pay for water through both a variable charge based on water use and a fixed rate. The charge for the fixed rate has remained unchanged for the past three years, and the variable rate has stayed the same since July 2010.

This year the rates and charges have been reviewed and have been increased. The increase has been made to ensure that there is enough money to fund renewal work on the Rolleston water supply system in the future. Water treatment improvements are also being made to the Rolleston supply.

The Rolleston variable charge has been increased from 1 July from 33 cents to 40 cents per cubic metre (which is equivalent to 1,000 litres). The variable charge is based on water consumption which is monitored by a water meter on each individual property.

The Rolleston fixed water rate has increased from $165 to $200 per year.

A household with average water usage will pay around 94 cents per day in Rolleston for water. This amount includes both the variable use and fixed charge.

Most households in Selwyn use over 1,000 litres of water per day. This is high by comparison with the rest of New Zealand, where typical household use is around 675 litres per day. If you live in Rolleston you can reduce the amount you spend on water by reducing the amount of water your household uses.

Water consumption is usually much higher over the summer when people water their gardens and lawns. Using a garden sprinkler can use up to 1,500 litres of water per hour – so you can use more water than your household would normally consume in a full day just by running a sprinkler for an hour.

How much water do you use?

This chart shows the amount of water typically used for different household activities. Once you know where your water is going, you can think about how you could reduce your water use.

Kitchen — Activity	Water Used	Buckets
