

2019 Triennial Election Results

Final results have confirmed Selwyn Mayor Sam Broughton has been returned for a second term following the 2019 Selwyn District Council elections.

Three new councillors have been elected and eight councillors from the previous council have been returned.

Mr Broughton says he's excited about the opportunity to continue leading on behalf of the district and welcomed the three new councillors.

"It's cool to have three new faces around the Council table for the life that they will bring and the outside voices they will contribute to the discussions we have been having."

The new Council's priority is to meet and get to know each other and to deliver on the major projects the Council has committed to on behalf of the community, he says.

"Through the election all elected members receive a lot of feedback on how we're doing. It's good to know we all love living in Selwyn and we will continue to look to improve in areas where people see that need."

Fresh water management and provision of safe drinking water to communities will continue to be a focus, he says.

"We will be meeting government legislative requirements, however we will continue to uphold our Selwyn identity and support finding local solutions to local problems."

The final result for the Selwyn District Council elections held on Saturday 12 October is as follows.

Rebuilding bikes and lives

A new lease of life for old bikes is helping Selwyn school students, prisoners and people reintegrating on release from prison.

The Council has been working with Pathway—a Canterbury charity that works with people in prison and helps them reintegrate on release— and with Selwyn high schools to give old bikes a new life.

The Council's solid waste team provides bicycles that have been taken to the Pines Resource Recovery Park to Pathway, which teaches people in the youth unit at Christchurch Men's Prison to refurbish them. The bikes are then gifted to people Pathways Trust works with after their release.

The Council has given around 60 bikes to Pathways. A further 14 bikes have also been given to Ellesmere College and Lincoln High School for students to work on.

"Being able to have the bikes repaired and reused, instead of being shredded for scrap metal recycling was a preferred outcome in line with Council's aims in our Waste Minimisation Plan to reduce waste and reuse items," Council Solid Waste Manager Andrew Boyd says. "And the positive social outcome with prisoners was the icing on the cake."

The bicycle project is a great way to help people in prison learn transferable work skills, purpose and self-esteem, Pathway employer and volunteer coordinator Renee Jones says.

"The guys love taking something which could've been thrown away and bringing it back to life and giving it a second chance."

The bikes help people on release to get to medical appointments, job interviews and work placements, reconnect with family and friends or just get to the supermarket, Ms Jones says.

The Council has also worked with container company and Council supplier Royal Wolf, which has given Pathway a special Wolf Lock security container to store the bikes and parts.

"It was our way of giving back. What Pathway does helping rehabilitate prisoners coming out of prison, it's such a worthy cause. They were in need of a container and that was something we could do to help out."

Community Fund applications open

One of the important ways that the Council helps to build strong communities in our district is by supporting groups and organisations that contribute to community wellbeing through our Selwyn Community Fund.

The fund is available for Selwyn based not-for-profit community groups who are looking to run a project, event or initiative in the Selwyn district.

Applications for funding close 31 October, apply now at selwyn.govt.nz/selwyn-community-fund

Projects that have received funding already this year include the Futures Canterbury Selwyn Hub, Arthur's Pass Summer Fête, Selwyn Basketball Club and West Melton Plunket Group Disco.

Notices

FLUSH YOUR TAPS

Some plumbing fittings have the potential to allow minute traces of metals to accumulate in water standing in the fittings for several hours.
