Yes just use the 2013 Iwi Management Plan. There are no other rūnanga plans to consider.

Thanks Henrietta - I'll go ahead on that basis

Meantime, just to keep me on the right track - is the correct Iwi Management Plan the 2013 Mahaanui Iwi Management Plan? And are there any Papatipu Rūnanga plans that I should also refer to?

Kia ora Andrew

Please go ahead and submit your resource consent around July. We will see all of the information then and assess your application against the Iwi Management Plan and take all information then to the rūnanga for comment.

There is no need for early engagement.

Kia ora

I am working with a client, New Zealand Clean Energy, on a prospective solar farm development near Darfield. The site is located on agricultural land (148 ha) next to (but not part of) the Fonterra

Kimberley plant (see maps below). It is estimated that a solar farm at this location could generate around 112MW of renewable energy.

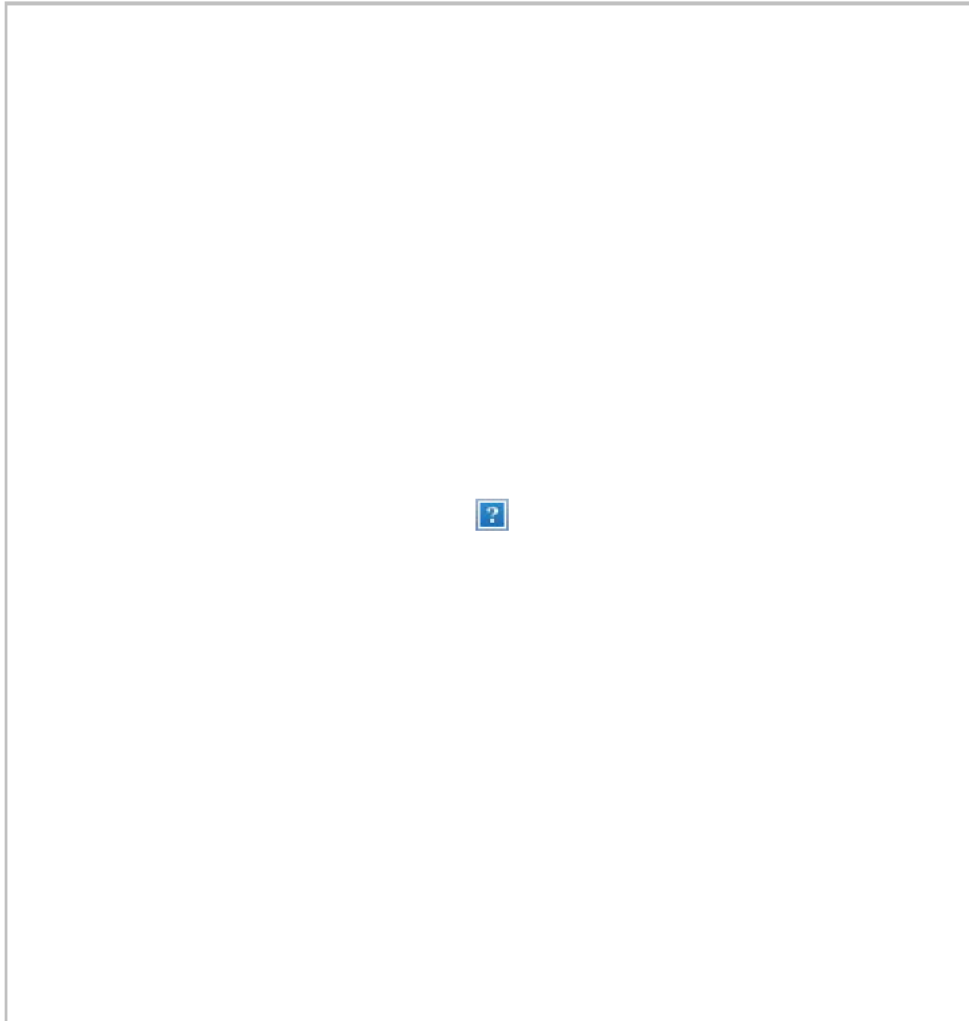

We are looking to put together a resource consent application, and I would like to check if ngā Papatipu Rūnanga of Te Tai o Mahaanui have any interest or concerns with the proposal.

I have attached a short briefing document outlining the solar farm prospect, which gives the location and general development prospect.

By way of timing and progress, we are currently in the early investigative stages, and have commissioned technical experts to assess the proposal in terms of ecology, landscape, archaeology, productive land capability and engineering. Subject to confirmation of the site's suitability, we would be looking to submit the resource consent application around

July.

I would be grateful if you could let me know if you have an interest in the project and would like to discuss more.
